ABOUT GERMAN LANGUAGE:

German is the third most taught foreign language in the English-speaking world, after French and Spanish. German is a West Germanic language. It derives most of its vocabulary from the Germanic branch of the Indo-European language family. It is written using the Latin alphabet. German is spoken natively by about 100 million people, making it the most widely spoken native language in the European Union and one of the major languages of the world.

German (Deutsch) is a West Germanic language and one of the world's major languages. Research shows that German is the most important and widely spoken language after English as a leading language in almost all spheres of human activity.

German is the official language in Austria, Belgium, Germany, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg and Switzerland. Over 78% of the world's total German speakers live in Germany.

In English, only proper nouns like people's names and the names of countries and cities are capitalised. In German, every single noun is capitalised. German is famous for its excessively long words with the longest word being made up of 79 letters!

TLS prepares you to write and clear the international certificate examination of German Language at all levels.
