ABOUT JAPANESE LANGUAGE:

- Japanese Language is actually called 'NIHONGO'. While most people outside Japan refer to the language as 'Japanese,' native speakers actually call it 'Nihongo.' This is the same with the name 'Japan,' which is referred to as 'Nihon' or 'Nippon' in the native dialect.
- Japanese is the de facto language of Japan, and it's also the only place where Japanese is the official language. However, that doesn't mean Japan is the only place where the language is spoken!
- Japanese isn't a tonal language. Like all languages, though, Japanese does have a certain rhythm and cadence to its words and sentences. The best way to learn the unique music of the Japanese language is by listening to authentic speech.
- Japanese is one of the most fast-paced spoken languages in the world. Interestingly enough, Japan has a spoken syllable rate of nearly eight syllables per second. That beats out Spanish, French and Italian.
- Despite popular belief, Japanese has no genetic relation to Chinese. Kanji is adopted from Chinese characters and used as a Japanese writing system and Japanese "borrows" quite a few phrases and words from Chinese. However, the Japanese language as a whole, isn't derived from the same language family as Chinese.
- Japanese is considered one of the most unique languages in the world.
- The Japanese language relies on not one but three different alphabets - hiragana, katakana and kanji - which are differentiated both by their distinct appearances and by their use.

There are four writing systems of Japanese Language:

Kanji

Hiragana

Katakana

Romaji

The Japanese language is traditionally written vertically and read from top-bottom, but it can also be written 'normally' in a horizontal manner and read from left-right. Some newspapers even join the two methods to maximize paper space. It may seem like a jumble to you, but it's really not.

TLS prepares you to write and clear the international certificate examination of Japanese Language at all levels.

- The course includes two Assessments which will help to measure your progress and put your knowledge to the test.
- Your trainer will help you enhance your Reading, Writing, Listening & Speaking Skills of Japanese language.
- Each Level will help to develop speaking, listening, reading and writing skills while expanding your vocabulary and knowledge of verbs and sentence structure.
- Using a series of reading, speaking & listening activities, assessments and support from your trainer, you will become a confident speaker of Japanese on a variety of subjects.

ABOUT JAPANESE LANGUAGE LEARNING PROCESS:

- N5 – It is specially developed for beginners. Candidates are expected to learn Hiragana, Katakana, around 100 Kanji (Chinese characters), their readings and pronunciations, and approximately 400-500 Japanese words and the basic rudiments of Japanese Grammar.
- N4 – One can listen and comprehend conversations encountered in daily life and generally follow their contents, provided that they are spoken slowly. You need nearly 300 Kanji and 1500 Japanese words.
- N3 – One can listen, read, and comprehend coherent conversations in everyday situations at near-natural speed and typically follow their contents and grasp the relationships among the people involved.
- N2 – Level 2 represented an even more notable jump up in requirements. At this level, the demand surges to 1000 kanji and 6000 words.
- N1 – Level 1 is, as you would expect, the highest and most sophisticated level.

Note: - Duration – 6 months for each level.
